Varsity Puts up a Great Game. Phenominal Work of Morris and Gibson—Steenerson's Great Tackling and Touchdown.

The game last Saturday was, without doubt, the best game of foot ball that the Washington public has seen in recent years. It was the best article of foot ball that our University ever put up, and when darkness fell upon the field and the game was called we had every reason to be proud of our boys. The Georgetown team was a little faster, but otherwise the teams were by far the most evenly matched that have ever met in the annual game between the two universities. Although defeated, we may well feel that at last we have a foot ball team fit for fast company and, in view of the enormous score piled up last year by our local rivals, we may look upon Saturday's game as a victory. The stand that George Washington made at the 2-yard line in the first half was one that would reflect credit upon any University in the country.

The support given by the student body to our team was everything that could be expected, the cheering was loud and hearty. A large body of students met at the University building and, headed by the 13th Cavalry Band, marched out Pennsylvania avenue to the field. The spirit shown by that body was the best that could be expected, and it is to be regretted that more of the students did not have the same kind. However, the University attended the game to a man and gave the team earnest support until the end.

For our team the best game was played by Steenerson, who was in everything that happened and who several times saved the game with his sure tackles. In the same class with him was Morris, the best ground gainer, whose work at times was phenomenal. Time after time he plunged through the Georgetown line for gains of 5 and 8 yards.

Gibson at the other tackle did good work, as did Linthicum, Beard and Field.

Smith at center played against McGuire, the 200-pound Georgetown center, and the manner in which he handled him was enough to make the hearts of his admirers glow with admiration; while his passing of the ball for kicks was gilt edge.

GAME IN DETAIL.

A few minutes after 3 o'clock the two teams appeared. Captain Steenerson won the toss, choosing to defend the north goal. Bocock kicked to the 5-yard line to Beard, who advanced the ball 15 yards. On the first line up a Georgetown man made an offside play and was penalized five yards. On the next play Georgetown was again penalized for offside, this time for ten yards and not profiting by this the Blue and Gray was still again penalized for the same offense on the third play. Beard was sent through Cogan for six yards and Morris made two more in the same place. Again Morris went through the line for five yards. Gibson for three and Morris for five more. Linthicum and Beard made short gains and Morris went through for 12 yards. Georgetown was penalized for offside work and then George Washington was held. Steenerson tried a quarter-back kick which ought to have been a touchdown. Lux, who was playing back, fumbled, and if one of our men had been following the ball it could have been a clear gain, but as luck would have it a Georgetown man fell on it. Georgetown was held for downs and forced to kick, and again George Washington advanced up the field, but was held on the 25-yard line, the ball going over to Georgetown. Then the Blue and Gray began to advance down the field with steady gains, Dutcher doing most of the work. On our two-yard line the team braced up and secured the ball on downs. Steenerson here brought the tackle back formation into play and carried the ball up the field. Georgetown held and again carried the ball to our two-yard line, when time was called and the half ended. Score: George Washington, 0; Georgetown, 0.

SECOND HALF.

Linthicum kicked to Lux on the five-yard line, who advanced 12 yards. Again Dutcher made gain after gain through our line, advancing the ball down the field. Bocock got around Berryman for 20 yards and Dutcher went through Vierra for 15. George Washington braced for two downs, but Dutcher came to Georgetown's rescue and made the distance. Fitzpatrick made four yards and Dutcher was pushed over for a touchdown. Brennen kicked an easy goal. Score: Georgetown, 6; George Washington, 0.

Steenerson choose to receive the kick, and Linthicum advanced 12 yards before he was downed. George Washington advanced up the field with gains by Morris and Gibson until it was 30 yards from goal, when Georgetown held.

Georgetown was held and forced to kick. Steenerson fumbled the kick and a Georgetown man fill on the ball. This was a piece of foot ball luck that worked against us. Georgetown steadily advanced the ball by consistent gains of from 4 to 8 yards until Dutcher was pushed over for the second touchdown. Brennen kicked an easy goal. Score: Georgetown, 12; George Washington, 0.

Our team began to make up for lost time and advanced the ball steadily after receiving the kick-off. Georgetown once held and forced Steenerson to kick, but were unable to advance the ball when they had it, and our team battered down their defense until it reached the 15-yard line, when Steenerson circled the end for a touchdown and kicked goal. Score: Georgetown, 12; George Washington, 6.

As it was then getting too dark to see the ball, by mutual agreement the game was called:

Dramatic Club

Last Wednesday evening rehearsals of "Lend Me Five Shillings," were held in the College building. Nearly all knew their parts perfectly, and some are beginning to have an idea of where they belong.

Graduate Club

The annual business meeting of the Graduate Club of the University was held in West Hall, Saturday evening, Nov. 25. President Needham addressed the club in a stirring manner, taking especial stress on the place of the Graduate Club in the University. Prof. Munroe also addressed the Club, and showed some pictures of the new buildings for the University. Assistant Professor Hopkins spoke about the additions to the electro-chemical laboratory.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Dr. Andrew Wilson; Vice-President, Dr. Edw. A. Hill; Secretary, L. Russel Alden; Treas. Paul N. Peck; Press Representative, Dr. N. Monroe Hopkins.

The Students' Ball

The Students' Ball will occur on February 23rd, 1906, provided the Willard Hotel can be obtained on that date, otherwise it will be held on February 20th.

As Convocation occurs at this time and the 22nd of February is the anniversary of Washington's birth, the Board of Lady Managers of the Hospital and President Needham have decided that this time is the most appropriate to hold the ball.

Class Presidents should keep this in mind so as to be able to appoint their Floor Committees in time to secure acceptances.

The members of the various classes should to a man, be there this year so that this ball will eclipse, if possible, the very successful ball of 1904.

Washington and Lee Game

The game with Washington and Lee will be played this morning, at 10.30 o'clock in order that all may go to see the Georgetown-Carlisle game this afternoon. This promises to be a hard game, for Washington and Lee has a good record and are said to have the best team the University has produced in years.

Medical

SENIOR-JUNIOR FOOT BALL GAME.

The Senior and Junior Medics have arranged for their annual foot ball game to be played on Thanksgiving Day, immediately after the Varsity game.

Mr. Dallas Sutton has been elected Captain of the Ki Yi Team, while Mr. Joseph R. Biggs acts in that capacity for THE HATCHET Class.

The game promises to be a hard-fought battle and very interesting as most of the candidates for the teams have played foot ball either in the high schools or at college, and because of the keen rivalry existing between the two classes.

THE HATCHET Class has a two-fold purpose in view in playing the Yi Yis, that of defeating their upper class men and of becoming the foot ball champions of the Medical School, they having already defeated the Class of '08, which in turn made the Class of '09 bite the dust.

The Senior line-up has not been learned, but the probable line-up of THE HATCHET Class follows:

Left GuardMosher
Center Weithas
Right Guard.....Monk or Kline
Right Tackle....Levy or Chipman
Right End....Conklin or Waring
Left Half Back...Carr or Conklin
Right Half Back.....Titus
Fullback Wilson
Quarterback Bryson

THE HATCHET Class is arranging for a banquet, to be held on Saturday, December 9th.

Have you noticed those "Bovee Juniors" that Johnston is trying to raise?

The new operation for stricture of the oesophagus, discovered by our eminent Dr. Trachelorrapny Johnston is creating widespread attention in medical circles.

We congratulate the Doctor on his contribution to surgical advancement.

THE HATCHET Class has a man who knows more about the uses of mustard plasters than has ever been written on that subject. How about it, Warner?

The '08 Class held a meeting November 21st, to consider Mr. Athey's resignation as President, which was accepted. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Athey for his efficient work during his term of office. The class is sorry to lose him.

By the unanimous election of Mr. George H. Hart, of Pennsylvania, to the office of President, as Mr. Athey's successor, an honor was conferred upon a very worthy man and one of whom the class has justly a right to be proud. Mr. Hart was president of the graduating class of '03 at the University of Pennsylvania.

The talk of a class smoker, which has been rife for some time, crystallized at the last meeting when it was decided to have a "spread" Saturday, December 9th. The Freshmen are cordially invited to be absent.

We learn that Mr. Wheatley will soon spring upon the unsuspecting public his new book entitled "Class Patriotism, or the Trials of a Treasurer."

We regret to report that our Mr. E. Griffith in his anxiety to see all the "bugs" he could under his microscope came in contact with a Bunsen flame and scorched his golden locks. Be careful, Ev?

Mr. R. D. Wolf, who was recently operated on at the hospital for injuries sustained as a result of his work on the gridiron, is getting along nicely.

We are glad that Mr. Gonzalez, who was operated on in New York City for appendicitis, is doing well. We trust that he will soon be with us.

The foot ball teams representing the First and Second year Medical classes, played their annual game, on the University campus, Tuesday afternoon, November 21st, resulting in the score of 11 to 0 in favor of the Sophomores.

The contest was replete with spectacular plays, weird and fantastic formations, brilliant end dashes and fierce line plunges. Limited space precludes even a brief resume of the game, but the individual work of some of the contestants deserves more than passing notice.

For the Freshmen, Morrissy was a pillar of strength, towering above his team mates in all points of the game, and at one time in the first half his excellent work promised a touchdown, if not a victory for his Class. This young man is coming timber for 'Varsity elevens. Woods did good work at right end.

Captain Castell and Tewksbury, Powell, Walsh, Everett and Quick all did effective work for the Sophomores. Castell, as usual, was in every play, and when it was his turn to carry the ball, always found openings for long gains and to him fell the honor of making both touchdowns. As a hurdler Walsh stands pre-eminent, and his punting was of the gilt-edge order. He kicked one goal and missed the other only by inches. Everett's tackling was superb, and Tewksbury ran Castell a close second in ground gaining. Quick, true to his name, was in every play with lightning-like rapidity. Powell, though light, put up the pluckiest kind of a game, going back into the battle time and again after having to be assisted to his feet.

All the scoring occurred in the second half. During the first half it looked like anyone's game, but the superior team and individual work won for the Sophomores finally.

Mr. Moffett's work as umpire was most satisfactory, and as a referee Mr. Carr was a complete success. Mr. Steenerson's efforts as head linseman were of such a strenuous character during the early stages of the game that he was compelled to indulge in goal kicking practice to set him right again.

No one was killed and the best of feeling prevailed.

Senior Law Banquet

The Senior Class of the Department Law held its annual banquet at Rauscher's, last Thursday evening. The affair was a most delightful one and those attending were fortunate in being permitted to head the Honorable F. M. Cockrell, in one of his characteristic after-dinner talks.

It was about nine o'clock when the company were ushered into the dining hall. The hall had been tastefully decorated with American flags, harmoniously intertwined with flags of George Washington University. Just over the head table there was stretched a large Buff and Blue pennant and in bold relief were the words: "George Washington." The whole effect of the decorations was most pleasing. There were eight tables with covers for seventy men, at each table there was a distinguished guest. The head table was graced with the presence of Hon. F. M. Cockrell, and President Needham, while at the others were Dean Vance, Professors, Scott, Clephane, Ernest, Brandenburg, Peter, and Lorenzen.

After a few remarks by President Badger, the dainty feast was disposed of.

When supper was over, President Badger introduced our honored President Needham, who had as his subject, "The Study of the Law as a Science." President Needham is always heard with pleasure by the members of the class of 1906, and on this occasion his words were received with marked attention.

Following President Needham, Hon. F. M. Cockrell was introduced. His subject, "Recollections," gave the honored guest an opportunity to offer some excellent advice to young lawyers and his remarks were interspersed with admonitions, which, if heeded by the men of the class of 1906, will be of great benefit to them. In concluding he said: "Young men so live that when, in after years, you meet the companions of today, there will be no regrets. I shall wish for each one of you a happy and honorable career, but remember that life gives nothing worth the having without effort. Every man should start out with an abiding confidence in the wisdom of the policy of always doing right."

At the conclusion of his remarks the band struck up "Auld lang syne," the company singing.

Dean Vance was next presented and had as his subject "Broader borders." It was quite evident that our much-loved Dean knows just what is meant by broader borders, and his remarks were of such character as pleased the young men.

Professor Scott, the recent addition to the faculty, who treads the "Green Fields of Equity," was called upon to add to the success of the occasion by making a few observations and he said he gratified every one present with his observations as to what should be done that greater culture might be attained. His acquaintance with the luminaries of the profession led him to advise the study of the lives of those men. His words were well received.

The class of 1906 were honored in having with them so many members of the faculty and particularly honored by the presence of Hon. F. M. Cockrell, of Missouri.

When the feasting and speech-making were over there was an hour of social conversation.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1905

We have every reason to be proud of the work of our team last Saturday. We have a team that is a fit representative of the University, and if the improvement continues as rapidly as it has in the past two years, it will not be long before our team will rank with any in the country. Foot ball is something that has to grow into a University, no matter how strong and active the men are, if the game is new to the University it can not be a great team at once, it has to be, in a manner, absorbed into the blood and tissue of the students. This is the stage which we have reached. We have passed from the soft, green stage to the stage of real foot ball and our progress is going to be rapid from now on.

One has only to look at our former games with Georgetown to see the remarkable strides we have made. True, Georgetown's team is not so strong as last year's, but does any body think that if this team of ours had played Georgetown's last year's team, the score would have been very different from what it was Saturday?

There is just one thing that we have to learn, and that is aggressiveness and speed in charging the other team, and not to wait and receive their charge allowing them to gather momentum, but to be first in getting under headway.

No better tackler has ever been seen on the field than Capt. Steenerson; he has an unerring eye for the runner, and dives low and hard in typical foot ball style. He has earned the effective art of throwing himself at the runner in the moment of tackling, that never fails to bring his man down.

Morris comes in for a great portion of praise for his work Saturday. When a few more yards were necessary to make the required distance, he was called back to make it, and rarely failed to do so. He keeps his feet remarkably well and never fumbles the ball. He is the most reliable ground-gainer on the team.

Every member of the team played so well that each should have an individual write-up. This will be done in the next issue, when a special write-up of the team will appear.

"Consistency thou art a jewel," and a very rare one, too; sometimes we think that thou hast ceased to exist. There are those occupying representative positions in the University, among the students, who are the first to get up and address the students very impassionately on the matter of patronizing and supporting this or that phase of University activity, and are ready to brand as "craven" one who may not answer their call, yet these same enthusiasts are found woefully lacking, even more so than those they accuse of want of college spirit, when it comes to some other phase of college life just as important. Equity says you must come into court with clean hands, so if one wishes his words of exhortation to carry the most weight, he must show his conduct consistent with his words. There is no feature of the University that demands the united support of the student more than its official, student publication, "The University Hatchet." This is the first year that the paper has been in the hands of the student body, consequently it is entering upon a hitherto untrod field and should have the undivided co-operation and encouragement of every student. Such has been the case to a most encouraging extent and has been a matter of gratification to all interested in giving the University a weekly that will go out as a fit representative of the University and serve as a criterion to all who are wishing to form a true opinion of its standing among colleges of the country. But if we look on its subscription list, we do not find as subscribers the names of some of those mentioned above as occupying positions of responsibility among the students, nor do they ever do anything to further its interests, either in its columns or otherwise, in fact, they have been known to be so narrow as to throw obstacles in its way. So, naturally, when we hear these urging the students to do thus and so, sacrifice their time, money, and convenience, if necessary, to loyalty to the University, we can not help thinking that their words would be more effective if there was not that inconsistency and tinge of hypocrisy about them.

Billy the Boatswain

An Ex English Naval Officer was commenting on the home-bringing of the remains of Admiral Paul Jones, after losing them for about a century, and when I asked him if he knew how they brought Nelson's remains from Trafalgar, he said: "By jove, I don't!"

I reminded him that warships in Nelson's day were wooden, three-decker sailing vessels—no ice plants and no embalmers aboard—and that after the battle they had to spend some days repairing before they were in condition to sail back to England, and that nevertheless Nelson now lies beside Wellington in St. Paul's.

"Well, how did they get Nelson home?"

This was my answer, as a piece of fore-castle doggerel:

We put the Admiral in a cask, and tightly bunged the bung.
The hoops were strong, and the staves were sound, and never a leak was sprung,—
But, Billy the Boatswain got drunk again. Billy got drunk again.

That he had very much more than his ration, Sir, was very much more than plain.

As we sailed away from Trafalgar bay, it set us all agog:

"When Billy the Boatswain gets drunk again, where does he get the grog?"

We put the Admiral in a cask, and it wasn't full of brine.

We put the Admiral in a cask of old Jamaica, fine.

And Chippies, the carpenter, closed the head, and the Chaplain sealed the bung.

And the hoops were strong, and the staves were sound, and never a leak was sprung.

But, Billy the Boatswain got drunk again, and you'll find it on the log.

The officers had to haul him up to know where he got the grog.

Billy the Boatswain was sober again, when they brought him from the "brig."

And the Captain asked him, sternly: "Now, where did you get your jig?"

Said Billy the Boatswain, sober: "Well, tell the truth I shall,

"I got a gimlet, and a straw, and I tapped the Ad-mi-ral."

The hole was plugged, and Billy was slugged, and homeward we did come.

But, shipmates, no one ever knew who drank the rest of the rum.

Needham Debating Society

The Needham Debating Society held a regular meeting on Friday evening, November 24. The question under consideration, "Resolved, That Municipal Corporations should own and operate their public utilities," was very warmly debated, and in view of the apparent increased demands of the people for municipal ownership as shown by the result of the recent elections in the larger cities, very interesting. The affirmative pointed to the City of Glasgow as an example of what good might be derived from this proposition and dwelt upon the "graft" which would be diverted to the use of the people instead of enriching the coffers of the private corporations. The question was supported by Messrs. M. W. Patterson, Perkins, and A. D. Phillips, while the negative proposition was sustained by Messrs. L. W. Phillips, Thomson, and Rutherford.

The judges decided that the affirmative had sustained their contentions and awarded first and second honors respectively to Messrs. Perkins and Patterson. Messrs. Stein, Rutherford, Phillips, and Frayzer participated in the general discussion which followed.

Acting upon the communication received from the Columbian Debating Society in reference to the inter-society debate, to be held on December 15th, the society voted to take the negative of the question to be debated, which reads as follows: "Resolved, That the effects of great industrial combinations, commonly known as trusts, are detrimental to the interests of the wage earning classes." A special meeting will be held on Monday evening, December 4th, when our team for this debate will be selected from the six first honor men who are eligible.

The society then held its semi-annual election of officers. Messrs. W. E. Thompson, Law '07, and Adam Beeler, Law '06, were nominated for President, and the latter won by a safe majority. The other officers elected were J. T. Kennedy, Law '07, vice-president; C. W. Owen, Law '08, secretary; L. B. Perkins, Law '08, treasurer; J. B. Schommer, Law '07, Sergeant-at-arms; and E. J. Lundy, and J. A. Smith, Law '07, executive committee; Dobbins and Frayzer, critics.

After unanimously passing a resolution of thanks to the retiring president, Mr. D. C. Dobbins, for his very excellent and faithful execution of the duties of that office, the society adjourned.

Columbian College

The executive committee of the Senior Class recently met at the home of Mr. Whitmore and made plans for the year in general and for the Thanksgiving dance in particular. The plans for the year include monthly social meetings, a Senior play to be given during graduation week and several other features which will be announced at the proper time.

On Tuesday there was a class meeting at which these plans were presented to the class as a report of the committee and heartily endorsed.

SENIOR DANCE.

The committee having charge of the Senior Thanksgiving dance, which will take place on Friday, the first of December, are hard at work and promise to make it a very attractive affair. The committee still have some invitations to dispose of and will be glad to give them to any college student, who has not been supplied. The committee is: Mr. Stivers, Miss Barber, Miss McCleary, and Miss Taylor.

SENIOR COLONIAL SUPPER.

Miss McCleary and Miss McMahon have invited the Senior Class to a supper to be held in an old colonial residence near Arlington, on the 5th of December. The class will leave the college building at 6:30 and go out in a body.

The Junior Class will hold a meeting on Wednesday, the 29th, at 6:30, in West Hall. The object is to make arrangements for a dance to be given during the Christmas holidays.

We are glad to announce the election of Mr. Leiter as director of the University Glee Club. Mr. Leiter is a musician of exceptional ability and his election assures a very successful year.

Mr. Cullom Holmes Fenell, who attended this college two years ago, as a member of the class of '06, is in town and favors us with his presence now and then. He is now with the Pennsylvania R. R., as general passenger agent.

Rifle Club

The first preliminary meeting of the Rifle Club took place last Tuesday evening. Mr. Magruder was unanimously chosen chairman. After some further talk, a committee was appointed to get out among the student body to talk the matter up and get as many as possible interested. If we can get twenty men to take interest in the club, we can join the National Rifle Association of America. This will allow us to send a team to the annual Rifle match at Sea Girt, where they have established a special cup for competing college teams.

There was an account in the papers only a day or two ago of the rifle match between Princeton, Yale and Harvard. That is the kind of thing we want to do just now. We have some excellent shots in the University. Why not organize a team? There will be another meeting Wednesday evening, November 29th.

Class Presidents

At a meeting of the Association of Class Presidents, held November 26, at the Medical Department, it was decided to hold the election of Officers of the Association on Saturday, December 2, at 5 p. m., at the same place.

Every Class President should be present in order to cast his vote and thereby represent his class and Departments.

Presidents of Classes should at once send their names and addresses to E. C. Wilson, U. S. Patent Office, so that the roll may be complete.

Columbian Debate on Isthmian Canal

Had certain high officials been present at the Columbian Debate last Friday night they might have added very considerably to their information as to the best method of procedure in building the Canal at Panama. It is to be regretted that the valuable stock of knowledge displayed by the debaters could not be presented to the Commissioners who have been beset with doubts and difficulties. One of the speakers who showed familiarity with large schemes for constructive engineering work is confidently expecting an appointment to the Canal Board. With his counsel and assistance we believe the Canal would be promptly and properly dug.

The particular question debated was, Resolved, That the Panama Canal should be built by the contract system rather than by the United States Government directly. On the affirmative were Messrs. Tracy, Moore, and Goodall, and on the negative Messrs. Pretzfelder, Levine, and MacDonald. The affirmative won, and first honors went to Mr. Pretzfelder and second to Mr. Goodall. The gentlemen who volunteered are to be congratulated upon the excellent showing they made without having prepared speeches.

On Friday evening of this week Messrs. Myers, Newmyer, Stern, Muhleman, Cook and Agnew will compete for positions on the team which will debate against the Needham Society, on Dec. 15th.

Columbian Classical Club

In lieu of the regular November meeting, the members of the Columbian Classical Club, together with students in Classical Archaeology assembled Monday afternoon in the Halls of the Ancients, for the study of the valuable reproductions of antiquity they contain. Professor Carroll explained the Pompeian House and the grand panorama of Rome painted by Buhlraun and Wagner, and Mr. Franklin W. Smith, the founder of the Halls, kindly described the Assyrian throne-room and sketched his plans for the erection of the Halls in Washington. About twenty-five were present.

Chi Omega

On Thursday, November 23d, the Chi Omega Fraternity gave a luncheon at the College to a number of their fellow students and friends. The room and table was very prettily decorated with pennants, white carnations and chrysanthemums. This is the second luncheon they have given this season and they hope to give others in the near future.

The Chi Omegas spent a very enjoyable evening with Miss Mildred Johnston, at her home on N street and Connecticut avenue, Saturday, November 25th. The guest of honor was Mrs. M. W. Bain, who leaves the city on December 1st for the West. Progressive cards were the main feature of the evening.

Sophomore Club Entertained

The Sophomore Club was entertained Saturday evening at the home of Miss Grace Barbour, when an old-time taffy-pull was enjoyed. The evening was pleasantly spent and at a late hour the members said farewell until the next meeting, which will occur December 16th, at the home of Miss Birtwell.

Columbian College Incorporated

Columbian College was incorporated last week by a certificate filed with the recorder of deeds. John B. Larner, Samuel W. Woodward, Theodore W. Noyes, David A. Chambers, and Thomas R. Jones are the incorporators.

The College is incorporated under the provisions of the Act of Congress amending the charter of the George Washington University, approved March 3d last, and the action is taken with the assent of the University, evidenced by its certificate attached to the incorporation papers.

The particular studies to be taught in Columbian College, according to the certificate of incorporation, are philosophy, classical languages and literatures, modern languages and literature, English, mathematics, pure and applied; history, social sciences, sciences, natural and physical, and such other branches as may be taught in colleges in courses leading to the baccalaureate degree.

The highest officer of the college shall be a dean, who, with the members of the Faculty, shall constitute the educational councils of the University. All degrees are to be bestowed by the University, but in all financial and legal matters the College shall be an independent organization.

The affairs of the college are to be managed by a board of ten trustees, of which the President of the University shall be a member ex-officio. The first board shall consist of Samuel H. Greene, Samuel W. Woodward, and William H. Shallenberger, whose terms expire in June, 1908; Eugene Levering, Edward M. Gallaudet, and John B. Larner, whose terms expire in June, 1907, and Thomas R. Jones, David A. Chambers, and Theodore W. Noyes, whose terms expire in June, 1906.

Washington College of Engineering also was incorporated yesterday under the act amending the charter of George Washington University. John M. Wilson, John Joy Edson, John B. Larner, Thomas M. Chatard, and C. W. Rae are the incorporators.

The head of the College shall be a dean, and its affairs are to be conducted as provided for Columbian College. The first board of ten trustees shall comprise John M. Wilson, Bernard R. Green, and Charles Whiteside Rae, who will serve until June, 1908; Thomas M. Chatard, T. Cummerford Martin, and Otto H. Tiltmann, who will serve until June, 1907, and John B. Larner, Charles D. Walcott, and John Joy Edson, whose terms will expire in June, 1906.

The studies to be taught in the College of Engineering are civil, electrical, mechanical, mining, and ordnance engineering; naval architecture; mathematics, pure and applied; sciences, natural and physical; modern languages, and such other branches as are or may be taught in colleges of engineering and technology.

The University Bulletin

The George Washington University Bulletin is published four times a year, under the supervision of the Board of University Publications, appointed by the President's Council. It is intended to be an organ of the educational and scientific activities of the University, and contains much valuable information regarding books, monographs, and papers published by instructors and graduates. It is published under the directorship of Professor Mitchell Carroll. The last number contains much valuable reading and many items of interest to all connected with the University.

The chief articles are: "The Lord Protector's Motto," by Professor Charles E. Munroe, Head Professor of Chemistry; "Legal Education and University Ideals," by Professor William R. Vance; "Seminary Methods of Legal Instruction in the German Universities," by Professor Ernest G. Lorenzen; "Methods of Studying the History of Philosophy," by Professor James MacBride Sterrett; "Aristotle's Aesthetics of Painting and Sculpture," by Professor Mitchell Carroll; "Cranial Capacity of Prehistoric Man vs. Modern Man," by Dr. Edward Elliot Richardson, and "The Constitution of Certain Natural Silicates," by Hiram Colver McNeil.

Under "Book Notices" are given extracts from criticisms of books published by professors of the University during the year. Of Professor Sterrett's book, "The Freedom of Authority," the Lutheran Quarterly says: "The author is exceedingly well-read in current philosophical and religious literature. He thinks independently and expresses himself unequivocally." The Scotsman says: "The essays exhibit a wide learning in the literature of advanced contemporary theology, and show no small dialectic ability in what may be called the previous question of orthodoxy." The Catholic World gives a 12-page review of this work of Professor Sterrett's, "Whose previous publications entitle him to a place among leading Protestant thinkers." Professor Schoenfeld's "Bismark's Orations and Letters" is highly praised by Professor Goebel of Harvard, and The Outlook says: "The book is indispensable to the student of contemporary history as affected by Germany, but especially to the student of the unification of Germany itself. We have learned much about Bismark's personality through the various biographies, but no one of these books sums up Bismark's life-work as does Dr. Schoenfeld." We shall take occasion in succeeding numbers to acquaint students of the University with the published works of our professors and the high opinion expressed of them by the most searching critics of the present.

Mr. Helmig, of the Junior Class, had a narrow escape from what might have proved a serious accident a few nights ago. He was sitting in the Freshman laboratory near the belt which transmits power from the electric motor to the lathes for the students, when, in some manner which he was unable to explain, the sleeve of his shirt became entangled in the flying leather band and before he realized what had happened the sleeve had been torn completely off. Mr. Helmig is to be congratulated on his narrow escape from further injury.

Owing to the Thanksgiving holidays the infirmary will be closed from Thursday to Saturday, inclusive. Work will begin as usual Monday afternoon.

Some of the cases seen in the infirmary are very peculiar and amusing. Mr. Woodruff, after working long and faithfully over a vulcanity plate, was rewarded by having the wearer promise to send him a case of—er—let us say ginger ale. The patient was the worthy driver of a delivery wagon belonging to a firm which manufactures this enjoyable liquid.

Mr. Taylor had a patient recently who could speak English only with a strong Italian accent, and who had, it seemed, made a practice of pulling nails out of chair seats by the very simple method of catching them in his teeth and "worrying" them out, like a bull pup hanging on to an old boot. It is unnecessary to say that his teeth needed some attention.

We are pleased to state that Dr. Chas. L. Bovee is in charge of the Seniors in the prosthetic laboratory course, under Dr. Walton, Mondays and Wednesday evenings. A good man in a good place as Dr. Bovee is competent and always willing to help the student.

Freshmen, the other classes have you bested in subscribers for THE HATCHET. Wake up, boys, and send in your subscriptions at once. Don't borrow your neighbor's paper. He subscribes for himself not for you.

PSI OMEGA SMOKER.

The Psi Omega fraternity held its second informal smoker of the year on Saturday night last, at its quarters, 717 13th street. The fraternity was honored by having as one of its guests Dr. Wolf, demonstrator of prosthetic technics to the Junior Class.

On the occasion of a dinner given by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Universalist Church at Pythian Hall, on Ninth street, Friday evening, November 17th, G. Persival Jackson, the newly-elected president of the Junior Class, tendered to the members of his Class a sumptuous spread as a testimony of his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him by his fellow classmates.

The banquet table was tastefully decorated for the occasion with cut flowers, and class and University colors were in evidence, to make the decorative effect most charming. President Jackson, on behalf of the class, presented to each of the ladies who assisted at the table, a box of choice candies, after which Mr. MacDonald, for the class, thanked President Jackson for the delightful evening and expressed the hope that the meeting may be the initiation of that class spirit which might weld more firmly the true, generous fellowship which has on previous occasions manifested itself and promote more hearty class unity and University patriotism.
